

Dyslexia Review: The Journal of the Dyslexia Guild Submission Guidelines 2026

Dyslexia Review, ISSN 0308-6275, is the journal of The Dyslexia Guild, the professional association of Dyslexia Action. Membership of the Dyslexia Guild comprises specialist teachers and assessors and other professionals who are working or supporting individuals with dyslexia and or other SpLDs.

Dyslexia Review is a topical journal that features academic articles as well as providing wider content on subject matter of interest to our members. The journal is published twice a year and has a subscription circulation of 1500+. The journal is illustrated with appropriate colour images and published twice a year, Spring/Summer, and Autumn/Winter.

If you would like to submit a feature or article to our journal we can send you a sample copy of the journal to read to get an idea of the style. Articles must be relevant to the field of dyslexia and/or other learning differences, and of interest to our readers. We reserve the right not to accept the article where we feel the content or the style is not appropriate for our journal.

Submitting features

Features or articles should be submitted as an email attachment in a word processing format in a Sans Serif font, left justified and single spaced.

It is helpful if you can also provide a short written summary of the feature/article that we can use for introductory purposes and give a clear title for the article.

Items submitted must be carefully proofed and spell checked. Please confirm the spelling of any unusual words in your accompanying email. We do not read through several versions of your manuscript so please only send your final version.

References given should use either Harvard or American Psychological Association (APA) referencing conventions. Please make sure your references are accurate.

If your bibliography is long, we suggest that you select five to ten key works that are either featured as footnotes in the article or are key works associated with the article. If you would like to submit a longer article, then the edited version can be published in the magazine and the full feature can be placed in the National Dyslexia Resource Centre Online Library for members to access and will be noted in the journal version.

Images

Graphs, diagrams and other images should be sent separately as high resolution jpeg files of a minimum of 300 dpi. The copyright of the image should be your own or you will need to include permission to use them. In the case of an illustrative example, we can source images if required.

We like to have a small head and shoulders image (minimum of 300 dpi) of the author(s) to present with the article.

Editing

Features/articles are edited before sending to print. In most cases this will be a further proofreading and correction of grammatical errors, occasionally we have to cut text to fit print space. We reserve the right to make such changes and cannot consult with you on reasonable edits made.

We will always try to accommodate items submitted in the next issue but on occasions we may have to hold a feature/ article over to the next issue because of publication layout constraints.

Length of your article

FEATURE/ ARTICLE GUIDE LENGTH	MAX WORD LENGTH
½ PAGE:	300	Book reviews only
1 PAGE:	600	Book reviews and articles
2 PAGES:	1200	Articles and features only
3 PAGES:	1800	Articles and features only
4 PAGES:	3000	Articles and features only

Please note that we are only able to accept items that are longer than 4 pages where:

- a) Sensible editing of the item is likely to compromise the article
- b) The article could be split between two issues and is a complex information article
- c) The article is written in two discrete parts
- d) The article has relevant graphs or images that increase the page length.

Short News Items

Short items are better suited to our e-newsletter 'Guild Gallery' which is circulated to members on a quarterly basis in February, May, September and December. Please contact us directly with your proposed content.

We have a certain amount of flexibility with the submission dates and the editor will inform you of these when discussing your contribution.

We look forward to receiving your proposed feature/article. Please submit your work to:
